NEW WEBINAR
Preventing Oncology Nurse Burnout

April 16 - 1pm ET REGISTER NOW

As always, it was a great three days at the ACCC Annual Meeting and if you're anything like us, you loved meeting new people while seeing a lot of familiar faces.

Our main takeaway from this year's agenda is how many organizations are focusing on the wellbeing of their workforce as much as the wellbeing of their patients. From driving cultural changes to implementing AI and other technologies, cancer centers are now looking at satisfaction and retention as critical employee metrics.

Next month, LeanTaaS' Justin Kelley, MSN, RN, who presented a Luncheon Table Topic on the power of artificial intelligence to improve medicine without compromising care, will be presenting a new webinar, "Oncology Nurse Burnout: Data, Strategies, and Creating an Organization of Care." You won't want to miss this great opportunity to follow up on your learnings from the Annual Meeting and find out about key metrics that influence nurse burnout, creating a culture centered on staff wellbeing, and implementing operational strategies to ensure safe practice guardrails.
