

JUSTIFY YOUR TRIP

 blockquote

This is the one conference I requested to attend for my professional development. I appreciate hearing what other practices are doing to meet standards and reimbursement struggles. There is so much changing in the oncology world—and I get the best information from ACCC. LAURIE TYER, MSN, RN

The Lahey Center for Oncology and Hematology at Parkland Medical Center

The Association of Community Cancer Centers (ACCC) 33rd National Oncology Conference provides the practical knowledge, solutions, and strategies that you need to strengthen internal processes and improve the patient experience.

Regardless of your role on the multidisciplinary cancer care team, you will return to work invigorated by new ideas, connected to new contacts, and motivated to tackle professional challenges.

Please use the justification letter and expense spreadsheet templates below to justify your attendance at the National Oncology Conference to your employer.
