Kudos to Two ACCC Members: NSCLC Initiative Successes

ACCC is pleased to acknowledge the significant contribution of two of its member programs, Mount Carmel Health System in Columbus, Ohio, and Baptist Hospital East in Louisville, Kentucky.

As part of the ongoing community clinical perspectives educational initiative between ACCC and Medscape Oncology, each site recently hosted live regional meetings as part of the Case Challenges Studies in NSCLC: Identifying and Overcoming the Barriers program. These initiatives paired a nationally recognized authority on NSCLC with a local community oncologist with expertise in lung cancer to discuss clinical issues of concern to local healthcare professionals.

On February 4, 2011, Dennis Tishko, MD, of Mount Carmel Health System co-presented with Jeffrey Crawford, MD, of Duke University. On February 18, 2011, Khalid Ghosheh, MD, of Baptist Hospital East co-presented with Suresh Ramalingam, MD, of Emory University. These events provided CME credit to participants in attendance.

ACCC wishes to thank the staff at each of these member programs who contributed their time and resources to making these educational events a success.
