ACCC's web site has been reorganized and revitalized. Updated content, new features, and more convenient access are now available. The new and improved web site will provide ACCC members and the oncology community with the information they need to stay competitive, streamline services, improve reimbursement, and provide state-of-the-art, quality cancer care.

Each month more than 76,000 oncology professionals and cancer patients browse ACCC's web site. ACCC's goal is to make the web site a one-stop resource of information for the oncology community. The new home page has been updated for ease of navigation. Visitors to the site can search the current issue of Oncology Issues and ACCC's other publications, including Cancer Patient Management Guidelines, Critical Pathways, and Standards for Community Cancer Programs. Plus, a number of new features have been added:

- Oncology Drug Updates. Oncology professionals can sign up to receive e-mail alerts on newly FDA-approved oncology drugs and new off-label drug indications.
- ACCC Resource Center. Hospitals and private practices will be able to search ACCC's oncology resource center to find information on new products, services, and contacts.
- Legislative Alerts. Everyone can keep abreast of legislative actions and proposals on the federal and state levels that affect the delivery of cancer care.
- Register for ACCC meetings and purchase ACCC publications online.
- New and improved employment section. Search by job category.

- ACCC's News Group. Log on to network with colleagues and find answers to your programmatic questions.

As ACCC grows, the site will reflect our commitment to being the premier policy-setting organization for the oncology team. ☺
